Morgan-Fleming Wedding

Social Event of Week

Wedding bells have been ringing quite frequently within the past few weeks and one of the most important events was the wedding of Miss Mary Adele Morgan to Mr. John Lundy Fleming at St. Andrew's Cathedral on Wednesday evening. The waiting friends who filled the church gazed expectantly at the bridal procession as it slowly walked up the aisle. The surprised choir first sang most sweetly and as the charming little flower girl, Helene Morgan, appeared, the wedding march pealed forth grandly. The attractive maid-of-honor, Miss Letitia Morgan, came next and then followed the bridesmaid, Miss Cordie Carden, who looked very chic. The lovely bride on the arm of her father, Mr. James Morgan, was the cynosure of all eyes, and the ushers, Messrs. Harold Castle, Roscoe W. Perkins, William G. Walker and Robert Mist followed. Bishop Restarick, the groom and his best man, Mr. David Lee Austin, awaiting them at the chancel steps. The bride was given into the keeping of the groom by her father. The bridal party retired into the inner room to inscribe their names in the registry. The choir sang during the interval and then the wedding procession passed down the aisle to the triumphant strains of the Lohengrin march. The bride was handsomely dressed in white satin made Princess, embellished with Honiton point lace, and the soft veil was very becoming, and she carried white roses. She made a smart and lovely picture. The maid-of-honor and the bridesmaid were in pink chiffon over pink silk, and they were much admired. They carried pink roses. A reception and supper was served at the Morgan residence for the relatives and bridal party, including Bishop and Mrs. Restarick. Mrs. Morgan wore a magnificent black and white satin trimmed with Duchess point lace, and on her head was a picture hat with large ostrich plumes. The color scheme of the decorations at the church was green and white, artistically carried out in white asters, white lilies, white marguerites and a profusion of maidenhair and choice greens. Mrs. Soule, Mrs. Abrams and Miss Rycroft were the artistic decorators. The presents were handsome, two rooms being necessary to hold them, cut glass, silver and bric-a-brac predominating. The honeymoon is being spent at the Cooper bungalow on Tantalus and later at the residence of Mr. J. P. Cooke at Koolau. Mr. Fleming, the groom, is well and favorably known. He is an ardent sportsman and has managed the Oahu Polo Club for two seasons. He is connected with the wealthy firm of Alexander & Baldwin. Mrs. Fleming is a charming girl and most popular, and everybody wishes the bride and groom long life and happiness.

Fleet Garden Party

The Moana Hotel was the scene of a most enjoyable garden party on Friday afternoon given by the Woman's auxiliary of the Fleet Committee in honor of Admiral Swinburne and the officers of the Fleet. The lower floor of the Moana, as well as the lawn, was given over to the committee, and the writing-room was made into a lounge by the clever fingers making a cozy place to chat between dances. The distinguished guests were met by Mrs. Walter Frear in the hall, who was assisted by many of the committee, including Mrs. Ernest Mott-Smith, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. C. Cooper, Mrs. W. Habbitt, Mrs. Humphris, Mrs. Church and many others. Hundreds passed before the reception committee and were at once invited by the young girls who were asked to assist, to proceed to the lawn and partake of a punch in conjunction with sandwiches of all kinds, which was served under the hau tree by Mrs. Edward Tenney, Mrs. Clifford Kimball and Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes Jr. The hau tree was literally a bower for the drooping sprays of golden shower and pink shower were festooned from the branches and hung in graceful clusters, while the long table was covered with golden shower, the clusters falling over the sides, and a great bouquet of pink shower occupied one side of the table. A carpet was spread on the lawn to save the dainty frocks of the fair guests. Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Edward Tenney decorated the refreshment space and their handiwork was greatly admired. The band from the West Virginia played delightfully all the afternoon, for the dancing in the drawingroom. The lawn was a pretty sight for gay-dressed women were walking about with the navy officers, who lived up to their reputation for gallantry. Among the pretty women noted was Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, who looked quaint and interesting in a dainty toilette of pink, but the piece de resistance was the wonderful pink chapeau which crowned her smoothly-coiffured tresses. It was the latest Parisian creation, tied under the chin, with quaint crown and Directoire brim, decidedly tres chic Madame. There were, of course, others who looked extremely well, and as Mrs. Swinburne so nicely said, "What a number of pretty women there are in Honolulu," so say I. Among those present were, besides the distinguished guests of honor, Mrs. Dunham, Captain and Mrs. Rees, Governor Frear, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mrs. Griggs Holt, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Waldron, the Misses Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. Babbitt, Mrs. J. O. Carter, Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, Mrs. Beedefeld, Captain and Mrs. Wadhams, Mrs. Ballentyne, Dr. and Mrs. McCallum, Miss Anna Paris, Count von S. Domkiewicz, Dr. and Mrs. Langhorne, Mrs. Alice Hastings, Mrs. George Herbert, Mrs. Laura Wight, Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham, Captain and Mrs. Patterson, Judge and Mrs. Sidney Ballou, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hall, Misses Hall, Alice Cooper, Lorna Lauken, Ella Wight, Wadhams (2), Quaries (2), Dorothy Wood, Irma Ballentyne, Ethel and Alice Spalding, Nora Sturgeon, Blanche Soper and many others.

Buchly Recital

Mr. R. J. Buchly has been prevailed upon by his friends to give a violin recital the latter part of October and announcement of the concert is hereby given. In preparation for the event Mr. Buchly has been working diligently for the past two months and will continue his work up to the time of the recital so as to appear in his very best form. A very fine program has been chosen and the patronesses of the recital will include many of the most prominent ladies in Honolulu social circles. Mrs. L. Tenney Peck has kindly consented to accompany Mr. Buchly, which will add to the success of the occasion. The recital will be under the management of Mr. Charles R. Frazier, who has handled very successfully many musical events in this city.

Rees Entertainment

Captain and Mrs. C. Rees entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening in a private dining room of the Pleasonton, in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Swinburne. The table was a dream of beauty, choice Duchesse roses and maidenhair ferns making a charming effect. Pink candlesticks, softly shaded with pink silk shades, carried out the color scheme. Mrs. Rees, who is a beautiful woman, looked particularly well in an artistic creation of black lace, which showed off the lovely contours of her shoulders to perfection. Mrs. Swinburne, a tall, fine-looking woman, was charming in cream spangled net over satin. Mrs. Walter Frear, dainty and sweet in white silk and lace, was much admired, and Mrs. Dunning looked very handsome. Mrs. George Davies, who is one of the recognized beauties of Honolulu, wore yellow silk. The guests included, besides the admiral and his wife, Governor and Mrs. Frear, Major and Mrs. Dunning, Mr. and Mrs. George Davies, Admiral Sebree, Commander Oliver.

Tomorrow will see the departure of the Pacific Fleet, and much regret is felt that the good times which its presence here brought about are at an end. Mrs. Swinburne, wife of Admiral W. T. Swinburne, will sail tomorrow on the Manchuria, and will join her husband in Honolulu, where she will remain as long as the ships are in port. She has been spending the summer at Del Monte, but came up to San Francisco a few days ago. Mrs. Emil Brungelore, who was Miss Vesta Shortridge, was to have sailed with Mrs. Swinburne, but changed her plans at the last and will remain for some time longer at Del Monte, where she has as her guest her mother, Mrs. A. M. Shortridge. Another, who will sail tomorrow is Lieut. Laurence Austin, whose engagement to Miss Roma Paxton, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Blitz Faxton, was announced several months ago.—The Call.

Mrs. J. D. Gaines entertained a party of fifteen children at the Pleasonton bathing pool on Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was a very delightful one, the young people entering into the joys of a dip in the pool with much laughter and enthusiasm. Among the number were the Halstead children, Mrs. W. Stanley's four hopefuls, Mrs. Lange's little family, Helena Rothwell, the little Kitecat child and little Payche Berry. While the mamas had tea with the hostess the children were served with cakes and glasses of milk on the lawn.

Mrs. Eleanor Hyde-Smith made a short visit recently to her home in San Mateo. She expects soon to leave for Honolulu, where she will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, whose marriage was an important social event of February. Mrs. Hyde-Smith and Miss Gertrude, whose engagement to Baldwin Wood was announced some months ago, have been living in retirement since the death of Mrs. Hyde-Smith's mother, Mrs. George Hyde.—The Call.

Mr. R. de B. Layard is looking very well. He was quite ill in the East but has apparently recovered his health. Many entertainments have been given in his honor. Mr. and Mrs. Lewton-Brain entertained him at dinner on Thursday evening and Mr. and Mrs.

Ralph Forster gave a dinner in his honor at the Consulate on Friday. Mr. George Davies will give him a stag lunch at the Pacific Club next week, and the Humphris have invited one hundred guests to meet him at a picnic at Waihele tomorrow.

The woman's auxiliary local committee is as follows: Mrs. Walter Frear, Mrs. Ernest Mott-Smith, Mrs. Edward Tenney, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. Tenney Peck, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. Winifred Rabbitt, Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mrs. Elizabeth Church, Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Jr., Mrs. F. H. Humphris, Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes Jr.

Mrs. Laura Wight and her daughter Ella will meet the Atlantic Fleet in Yokohama. Miss Leslie Wight, whom they have gone to meet, has been five years in Berlin, and her visit to this country will be brief, for she returns in the Spring to Germany, where she will be married, and her home will be in Norway.

Mrs. James Wilder and family and Mrs. Harnden have returned from Tantalus and are at their beach bungalow. Mrs. Harnden expects to sail for San Francisco in the Marana on the 15th, much to the regret of her large congeniency of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sadoc Tobin and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Davis Pillsbury are planning an automobile trip to the McCloud country and will leave the end of this week for the Country Club, from where they will motor to various places.—Call.

Young Francis Cogswell, the son of the late Admiral, who is on the South Dakota, is very ill and will be sent home immediately by the doctors' orders.

A ball will be given at the Moana hotel on Tuesday evening at which many society women will be patronesses. It is for the Fleet.

Judge and Mrs. Sanford B. Dole have returned from a delightful sojourn on the other islands, much benefited in health.

Miss Mabel A. Phillips, Mrs. A. Brown, and Mrs. Haughe spent a week at Haleiwa recently.
